The draft constitution of the People's Republic of China was amended.

Remarks:

The 34th meeting of the Central People's Government Committee was held in Beijing on the afternoon of September 9, 1954. The meeting discussed and approved the amended draft of the Constitution of the People's Republic of China. This draft constitution is to be submitted for review at the first session of the National People's Congress.

The constitution draft amended and approved at this meeting was proposed by the Constitution Drafting Committee of the People's Republic of China. It was formulated based on the opinions raised by the people nationwide in discussions after June 15 of this year, as well as the opinions put forward by the delegates attending the first session of the National People's Congress during group discussions.

The meeting then discussed and approved various lists of appointments and dismissals.

Attending this meeting were also over sixty individuals, including members of the Constitution Drafting Committee of the People's Republic of China, members of the Standing Committee of the National Committee of the Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference, members of the Government Council of the Central People's Government, and heads of thirty-three delegations of the first session of the National People's Congress.

The amended "Draft Constitution of the People's Republic of China" was approved by a show of hands at the meeting, and it was decided to formally submit it for deliberation at the first session of the National People's Congress.
